Face shock treatments.

Our skin is effected by change: Changes in our lifestyle, changes in the climate, environmental stressors, our personal daily routine and stressful situations can affect the beauty and health of our face, which can lead to wrinkles, blemishes and dull aging skin. Which is why it's important to intervene with targeted treatments that promote the renewal of the skin, increase the supply of oxygen and are specifically enriched with moisturising and antioxidant active ingredients to help the skin adapt to change and preserve its "biorhythms" from sudden and drastic external stresses, keeping your skin looking its healthiest.
